PREFACE

1. This report contains statistics on marriages contracted and divorces granted in South Africa during 2003.
2. The 2003 report portrays statistics on marriages recognised by the Marriage Act, 1961 (Act No. 25 of 1961) and recorded by the civil registration system. Marriages not recognised by the Marriage Act have not been included. The Marriage Act, 1961 (Act No. 25 of 1961), made provision for the solemnisation of marriages according to 'Christian, Jewish or Mohammedan rites or rites of any Indian religion', in fact only marriages concluded according to Christian and Jewish or Hebrew rites had been recognised. In the case of other religions whose marriage ceremony had not yet been approved at the time, marriages concluded through the rites of these religions, were not recognised. The summary and explanatory notes of this report discuss in detail the steps that are being taken to align the older (based on the Marriages Act, 1961 (Act No. 25 of 1961) legislation with the new Constitution of South Africa.
3. In the case of marriages, the statistical information is obtained from the Department of Home Affairs, whilst data on divorces are obtained from the registrars of the various divisions of the Supreme Court.
4. As from 1991 the Department of Home Affairs does not collect information on population group of couples getting married. For divorces, however, information on population group is available.
5. As from 1994 information on divorces for all population groups is collected. Previously, only information on divorces for coloureds, Indians/Asians and whites was collected.
6. Divorces where the population group of the husband and wife differs, or are unspecified, form part of the contents of the report and are no longer shown as a table in the summary.
7. Should your copy of this publication have any unacceptable printing or binding errors, the publication will be exchanged free of charge on receipt of the unsatisfactory copy. Please return it to the STATS SA's head office, at Private Bag X44, Pretoria, 0001 or 170 Andries Street, Pretoria.

SUMMARY

Introduction

The marriage and divorce statistics covered in this report are data collected through the civil registration system and the designated courts (twelve supreme courts), respectively. These exclude marriages solemnised under customary and certain religious rites during this time. Past legislation on the registration of marriages and divorces in South Africa resulted in customary and certain religious marriages and divorces being excluded from the civil registration system. Marriages solemnised under religious or customary rites that did not follow the prescribed marriage ceremony in the previous Marriages Act, 1961 (Act No. 25 of 1961) or where the marriage formula had not been approved by the Minister of Home Affairs, were not recognised or recorded by the civil registration system. Also, marriages solemnised by a minister of religion who was not designated as a marriage officer by the Minister of Home Affairs or by any authorised officer in the public service, were not recognised or recorded.

With the recent passing of the Recognition of Customary Marriages Act, 1998 (Act No. 120 of 1998) by parliament, the civil registration system will now recognise and record those marriages solemnised under customary rites. The implementation date of this Act was 15 November 2000. In order to align the older legislation with the new constitution, the South African Law Commission has undertaken an investigation with a view to recognising Islamic marriages. In this regard, a more detailed discussion is provided in the explanatory notes of this report.

Marriages

Officially recorded marriages

Table A (page xi) shows the number of recorded marriages from 1981 to 2003. It is observed that 178 689 marriages were recorded in 2003. This represents an increase of less than 1% (0,8%) from the 2002 figure (177 202).

Table B (page xii) shows the distribution of marriages by month of solemnisation and province. In 2003, the highest number of marriages was observed in January in 2003 (23 887), followed by February (18 454). It is further observed that this pattern remains consistent for almost all the provinces.

The distribution of recorded marriages by the five leading magisterial districts in each province, as shown in Table C, indicates that some municipalities have a far higher number of marriages registered than others. The high number of registered marriages in some municipalities can probably be attributed to the fact that most of them are more populated and more urbanised than others. Table C (page xiii) further indicates that in Northern Cape and Western Cape, the five leading municipalities contributed the highest percentage of officially solemnised marriages (72,4%) and (64,1%), respectively. The lowest percentage was observed in Limpopo, where the five leading municipalities contributed less than half (44,6%) of officially solemnised marriages.

Figure 1 (page xvii) shows the crude marriage rates by province for 2003. It is observed that Western Cape had the highest crude marriage rate (542 per 100 000 of the population), followed by Northern Cape (489 per 100 000 of the population), and then Gauteng (486 per 100 000 of the population). Limpopo had the lowest rate (234 per 100 000 of the population).

Marriage by way of solemnisation and province

Table D (page xiv) shows that, of all officially recorded marriages in 2003 (178 689), a total of 99 286 (55,6%) marriages were solemnised through civil rites and 51 242 (28,7%) through religious ceremonies. For 28 161 (15,8%) marriages, the way of solemnisation was unspecified. When compared to the 2002 figure, solemnisation by civil rites increased in number by 2 000. For marriages solemnised by religious ceremonies and those unspecified, the 2002 and 2003 figures do not differ much.

A breakdown of marriages according to way of solemnisation and province shows that, in some provinces, more marriages were solemnised under civil rites than under religious ceremonies, (see Figure 2 on page xvii). It is observed that in all provinces except Western Cape and KwaZulu-Natal, more marriages were solemnised by civil rites than by religious ceremony. In Western Cape and KwaZulu-Natal provinces, more marriages were solemnised through religious ceremonies than through civil rites. For a large number of marriages (6 944) in Gauteng, the way of solemnisation was unspecified. Detailed information on the number of marriages by denomination of officiating person, province and municipality is provided in Tables 1.1.1 to 1.1.9.

Marital status at time of marriage

Table E (page xv) shows that a total of 148 900 (83,3%) bridegrooms were bachelors at the time of marriage, while 7 321 (4,1%) were widowers and only 3 681 (2,1%) were divorcees. The number of bridegrooms whose marital status at the time of marriage was not specified was 18 787 (10,5%). It is observed that a total of 153 234 (85,8%) brides were spinsters at the time of marriage, while 6 343 (3,5%) were widows and 3 048 (1,7%) were divorcees. Further information on marital status at the time of marriage shows that more bachelors and widowers married either spinsters or widows while divorcees showed preference for spinsters or divorcees. Further information on previous marital status at the time of marriage is shown in Table 1.2.

Age patterns of officially recorded marriages

Age at first marriage is important as it influences the timing of childbearing, the number of years in which a couple is exposed to childbearing (in communities where childbearing starts with the formation of marital union) and ultimately, fertility. Table E further shows that the median age for females marrying for the first time (spinsters) was 29 years and for males marrying for the first time (bachelors) was 33 years. These median ages are, each, a year more than those observed in 2002 (28 for spinsters and 32 for bachelors).

Figure 3 (page xviii) provides information about the age pattern of marriage for spinsters and bachelors. Females start marrying earlier than males. Very few females tend to marry for the first time when they are at least 65 years old. Thus 21,8% spinsters compared to 7,1% bachelors aged less than 25 years were married in 2003. Similarly, 0,6% spinsters and 2,1% who were at least 65 years old got married for the first time. It is observed that over 80% of bachelors were older than spinsters or widows they married, while about 50% of bachelors were younger than the divorcees they married.

Figure 5 (page xix) shows the relative ages of widowers and their brides at the time of their latest registered marriages. It is observed that over 85% of widowers were older than spinsters or widows they married, while about 40% of widowers were younger than the divorcees they married. Figure 6 (page xix) shows the relative ages of divorcees and their brides at the time of their latest registered marriage. It is observed that over 90% of divorcees were older than the spinsters they married. More divorcees were older than the brides (widows, divorcees and unspecified) at the time of their latest registered marriage. More detailed age patterns of marriage are provided in Tables 1.3 to 1.7.

Divorces

Officially recorded divorces

A total of 31 566 divorces were recorded in 2003. This represents an increase of less than 1% (0,6%) from the 2002 figure of 31 370. The modified divorce rate for 2003 in South Africa was 520,4 per 100 000 married females. Figure 7 (page xx) shows modified divorce rates by province. It is observed that Gauteng recorded the highest modified divorce rate (799,6 per 100 000 married females), followed by Western Cape (771,0 per 100 000 married females). The lowest rates (per 100 000 married couples) were observed in Eastern Cape (303,7), Mpumalanga (279,2) and Limpopo (142,3).

The distribution by population group indicates that the white population group had the highest modified divorce rate (1 302,8 per 100 000 married females), followed by coloured (697,0 per 100 000 married females) and Indian/Asian (627,8 per 100 000 married females) population groups. African population group had the lowest modified crude divorce rate (181,2 per 100 000 married females). Further details on the rates by population group are provided in Tables 2.1.1 to 2.1.6. The distribution of divorces by the month the divorce was granted is provided in Table 2.2.

Divorce by way of solemnisation of marriage and population group

Figure 8 (page xx) shows divorces by way of solemnisation of marriage and population group. It is observed that the coloured and white population groups recorded more divorces resulting from marriages solemnised under religious rites than civil rites, while the African, Indian/Asian, 'Mixed' and unspecified population groups recorded more divorces resulting from marriages solemnised under civil rites than religious rites. Detailed information on way of solemnisation of marriage, province and population group is provided in Tables 2.3.1 to 2.3.9 and 2.4.1 to 2.4.6.

Age patterns of divorces among population groups

Figure 9 (page xxi) shows distributions of divorced males by population group. It can be observed that, for white population group, divorce begins early, with 14 males aged less than 20 years divorcing. The number of divorces among whites rises sharply after age 24 and only begins to decline after age 34. The pattern for all the other population groups shows relatively later rises in divorces. A comparison of the patterns between white and African population groups shows that divorces begin early among white males and remain relatively high until after age 39, while divorces among African males begin later, peak at ages 40-44 years (the latest peak of all population groups) and start to decline later than those for whites. Divorces among Indian/Asian males remain relatively constant through the different age groups. Divorce pattern among coloured males steadily rise and reach a peak at ages 35-39 years. The age patterns of divorces for all the population groups among males show that white, coloured and Indian/Asian population groups recorded the highest number of divorces at ages 30-34 years, while African population group recorded the highest divorce cases at ages 40-44 years. Figure 10 (Page xxi) shows the age distribution of registered divorces for females by population group. From the figure it can be observed that for white population group, divorce begins early, with a total of 31 females divorcing at under 20 years of age. The number of divorces rises sharply, reaches a peak at ages 30-34 years and declines thereafter. The age pattern for all the other population groups shows a relatively steady rise in divorces as age increases. For African females, divorces peaked between ages 35 and 39 years and decreased thereafter with increasing age. More detailed information on divorces and age is provided in Tables 2.5.1 to 2.5.6 and 2.6.1 to 2.6.6.

Divorce by duration of marriage prior divorce

Figure 11 (page xxii) provides information on the number of divorces according to the duration of marriage prior to the divorce by population group. The figure shows that although there is a general decline with increasing duration of marriage among all population groups, there is a slight increase before this decline. For all population groups, except the 'mixed' population category, the number of divorces peaks for marriages that lasted for 5-9 years and declines with increasing duration of marriage. For the 'mixed' population group the majority of divorces occurred among individuals married for 0-4 years. For Indians/Asians, the number of divorces was almost independent of duration of marriage and nearly constant as duration increased. More detailed information on duration of marriage is provided in Tables 2.7, 2.8.1 to 2.8.6 and 2.9.1 to 2.9.6.

Divorce by number of previous marriages

Figure 12 (page xxii) shows that, for white, coloured and Indian/Asian population groups, there were more female divorcees who had previously married more than once than male divorcees. For the African population group, there were nearly as many female divorcees who had previously married more than once as male divorcees. More information on number of times married and population group is provided in Tables 2.10.1 to 2.10.6 and 2.11.1 to 2.11.6.

Divorce by occupation at the time of divorce

Table F (page xvi) provides information on occupation of husband and wife by population group. It is observed that 26 650 (84,4%) husbands (males) specified their occupation at the time of divorce, while only 4 916 (15,6%) did not specify. A total of 24 106 (76,4%) wives (females) specified their occupation at the time of divorce, while 7 460 (23,6%) did not specify. From this information, we can deduce that for a large number of couples, both partners specified their occupation at the time of divorce. Across all population groups, a higher percentage of husbands specified their occupation at the time of divorce as compared to wives. The distinction by population group indicates the highest percentage of husbands and wives among white population group as having specified their occupation (89,4% for husbands and 79,8% for wives) and the lowest among coloured population group (74,0% for husbands and 67,6% for wives). Tables 2.12.1 to 2.12.6, 2.13.1 to 2.13.6 and 2.14 provide more information on occupation and population group.

Minor children involved in divorce

Divorce may have a profound effect, not only on the living arrangements of minor children, but also on their socio-economic and psychosocial well-being. A total of 33 424 minor children were involved in registered divorces in 2003, indicating a decrease in the number compared to the 2002 total of 34 400. Figure 13 (page xxiii) shows the breakdown of the number of minor children affected by divorce by population group. The white population group recorded the highest number of minor children involved in divorce (11 986), which represented a decrease from the 2002 figure (14 031). The second highest number of minor children involved in divorce was for the African population group (8 882), followed by coloured (5 069), Indian/Asian (1 702) and 'mixed' (435) population groups. The number of minor children whose parents' population group was not specified was 5 350. Tables 2.15.1 to 2.15.6 provide information on number of minor children involved by duration of marriage and population group.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

1. GENERAL BACKGROUND

1.1 Comparability of data

- 1.1.1 Data on marriages and divorces dating back to 1985 are not comparable to data from the previous years. Closing dates for these series were advanced to as near as possible to the end of the relevant year.
- 1.1.2 Divorces that are registered late are recorded for the year of registration of the divorce and not for the year in which the divorce was granted.
- 1.1.3 For the period 1970 to 1993, data for the former Republics of Transkei, Bophuthatswana, Venda and Ciskei were excluded from the report (Table 1.1 of the report). As from 1994, data for these areas form part of the data reported.
- 1.1.4 In comparison to previous years, figures for divorces for 1991 are relatively low. This decrease in the number of divorces has been queried with the registrars of the various divisions of the Supreme Court, but no explanations could be found.
- 1.1.5 For the years 1990 to 1991, the number of divorces indicated a relative decrease. In comparing the 1992 number of finalised divorces received from the registrars of the various divisions of the Supreme Court with the court rolls of finalised divorces, it appears that Stats SA did not receive all the information from the courts concerned. To provide a more accurate divorce figure, the 1992 divorce information was adjusted.
- 1.1.6 The number of divorces for 1993, when compared to 1992, is relatively low. Following queries with the registrars of the various divisions of the Supreme Court, it was confirmed that all relevant information on divorces had been supplied to Stats SA.

- 1.1.7 Incompleteness in data can occur if all information on marriages and divorces is not supplied. Under reporting and under-registration of marriages and divorces are inevitable, and the effects of this on marriage and divorce statistics have not yet been determined or estimated.

1.2 Collection and compilation of data on marriages

- 1.2.1 Marriage officers obtain data on marriages from marriage certificates that are submitted to the Department of Home Affairs. Very often magistrates, justices of peace, commissioners and ministers of religion serve as marriage officers, although other public service employees may also be designated to serve in such capacities. Marriages solemnised in courts are classed under civil marriages and are recorded by the Department of Home Affairs within three days of solemnisation of any marriage. However, as from 1 June 1996 no magistrate or designated persons from the Department of Justice solemnised marriages. The Department of Home Affairs now conducts the solemnisation of marriages.
- 1.2.2 Data capture of the marriage details is subsequently carried out at the Department of Home Affairs. Details of the bride and bridegroom are recorded together with the religious denomination of the officiating minister. At the coding of data stage, codes are assigned only to the religious denominations with significant numbers of marriages.

1.3 Collection and compilation of data on divorces

- 1.3.1 Stats SA, through registrars of the twelve Supreme Courts, administers the divorce form. Data capture and editing are carried out at Stats SA. The new divorce form (implemented in May 1999) now provides for the inclusion of customary and religious marriages as the way in which the dissolved marriage was solemnised.
- 1.3.2 Undocumented cases of abandonment and divorces that have been granted by religious or traditional authorities outside the civil courts do not appear in the statistics.

1.4 Shortcomings in marriage and divorce statistics

- 1.4.1 An issue that needs clarification is the treatment of marriage or divorce as an event as opposed to a process. When the marriages become processes extending over a period of time, they cannot be described as events that took place at certain dates.
- 1.4.2 For divorces, this problem is even worse. When couples first report the need for divorce, it may be granted in a few weeks if it is not contested. However, granting of the divorce may take a few years if contested. The statistics presented here report the year in which the divorce is granted, thereby reducing the whole process to an event.
- 1.4.3 With regard to divorces, this report does not take into account annulments. An annulment is another way in which a marriage contract is dissolved. It makes the marriage contract void from inception and confers on the parties the status of never having been married or to the status they held before the annulled marriage. A divorce confers the status of divorce on the parties. An annulment is distinctive from a divorce in that the former is granted based on some condition existing at the time of the contract, whereas the latter is granted based on some condition arising during the contract.

1.5 Towards the improvement of marriages and divorce statistics

- 1.5.1 From 1970 to 1993, Stats SA did not publish in its reports any information on marriages and divorces for Africans, due to the small number recorded by the civil registration system. This information was first published in the 1994 report.
- 1.5.2 Marriage statistics among Africans were only included in the reports from 1991 as part of the totals (there was no breakdown by population groups). The 1995 report was the first one to shed some light on the pace of change in divorces among Africans.

- 1.5.3 Past legislation on the registration of marriages and divorces in South Africa resulted in a large proportion of especially customary and certain religious marriages and divorces being excluded from the civil registration system. Marriages solemnised under religious or customary rites that did not follow the prescribed marriage formula in the Act (Act No. 25 of 1961), or whose marriage formula had not been approved by the Minister of Home Affairs, were not registered. These included those religious marriages whose minister of religion was not designated as a marriage officer by the Minister of Home Affairs or any authorised officer in the public service. While the Marriages Act, 1961 (Act No. 25 of 1961) made provision for the solemnisation of marriages according to 'Christian, Jewish or Mohammedan rites or rites of any Indian religion', in fact only marriages conducted according to Christian, and Jewish or Hebrew rites had been recognised. For other religions whose marriage formula had not yet been approved, marriages conducted under such rites were not recognised.

- 1.5.4 The passing of the Recognition of Customary Marriages Act, 1998 (Act No.120 of 1998) by parliament, will now recognise previously unrecognised customary and traditional marriages in law and will therefore register these marriages. The implementation date of this Act was 15 November 2000.

- 1.5.5 As a step towards improving the registration of marriages and divorces in South Africa, especially in light of the new Act, on 24 February 1999 Stats SA's Subdirector: Vital Statistics held a workshop in which key role-players participated. The main issues raised at the workshop were how to register customary marriages and divorces, issues relating to the recognition of all religious marriages and the revision of the form that is used to register divorces.

- 1.5.6 In May 1999, Stats SA implemented a new divorce form. There are several reasons for revising the old divorce form. First was the need to modify it to reflect new concerns such as the passing of the new Act. Second was the need to obtain more information about children whose parents were divorced. Such information is necessary for monitoring the implementation of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child (CRC) to which South Africa is a signatory.

1.5.7 Some of the revisions in the divorce form include:

- The revision of the choices of responses pertaining to where the marriage was solemnised. The new form now takes into account the religious places and customary rites for the solemnisation of a marriage.
- The section on the type of marriage contract that the couple entered into has now been revised to reflect in or out of community of property, and including and excluding the accrual system.
- Date of the couples' separation is also included.
- The old divorce form merely asked for the number of minor children involved; the new form makes provision for the age and gender of the minor children involved.
- The High Court and Family Court are now responsible for the dissolving of marriages. The inclusion of the Family Court is important, as the Maintenance Court is going to be absorbed within this structure. This change is significant when considering minor children in divorce cases.

1.5.8 At the workshop it was noted that while the Recognition of Customary Marriages Act will now be recognised by law and register customary marriages, religious marriages, especially Muslim religious marriages, are still to be recognised and recorded.

1.5.9 Some of the following points were raised at the workshop relating to Islamic marriages and divorces:

- In the case of Islamic marriages, it is significant to note that the age of consent (18 years) is no precedent. Marriage is possible as soon as puberty is attained (for both males and females).
- The concepts Nikah (marriage) and Talaq (divorce) are serious pronouncements according to Islamic law. A requirement of Islamic marriages is that they have to be concluded in the presence of witnesses. After Muslim couples have been married according to Islamic rites, registration of the marriage in terms of civil rites is regarded as a duplication of the marriage solemnisation.
- There is a prescribed procedure with regard to the dissolution of Islamic marriages. Here secular courts ought to be acquainted with the systems according to Islamic Jurisprudence – the system of counseling, arbitration, etc.

- A Muslim husband and wife could have varying surnames. Islam permits the wife to retain her maiden name.
- Whilst Islam acknowledges polygyny, it must be understood that it is limited polygyny that Islam advocates. A capable Muslim may take up to four wives.

1.5.10 In the above regard, the South African Law Commission released an Issue Paper 15 (Project 59) on Islamic Marriages and Related Matters in May 2000. The Issue Paper investigates the legal recognition of Islamic marriages and other aspects of Islamic Personal Law within South Africa. The Issue Paper attempts to draw attention to the more compelling issues arising out of the potential recognition of Muslim Personal Law in South Africa. The Issue Paper is meant to stimulate debate on how Muslim Personal Law should co-exist with current legislation and with the Constitution.

1.5.11 Some of the proposals that were put forward in the Issue Paper for comment included:

- It is proposed that couples contemplating a marriage should have the right to choose a marital system, which is compatible with their religious beliefs and with the constitution. This implies that the marriage could, by way of contract, be governed by Muslim Personal Law, or by secular law.
- To the extent that legislation is to give effect to the recognition of Islamic marriages, it is suggested that the new statute provide for both new and existing marriages.
- In the case of new marriages, it is proposed that the legislation should provide at least for the following matters:
 - the age of consent, which should be 18 years;
 - the designation of marriages officers who are entitled to perform Islamic marriages;
 - the registration of the marriages by the signing of a marriage register;
 - the formalities pertaining to the time, place and manner of solemnisation of Islamic marriages;
 - the appropriate marriage formula for the solemnisation of an Islamic marriage; and a standard contractual provision in the terms of which a Muslim Personal Law system established in the event of parties contemplating a Muslim marriage.

- Proposals are invited concerning the affording of recognition to polygynous marriages entered into before the commencement of a new statute, particularly in regard to potential complications such as existing proprietary rights, maintenance, succession and social welfare benefits.
- It is suggested that marriage officers should be required to recognise a Talaq in the presence of the parties, and that, for record and official purposes and for consonance with the Constitution, a Talaq should be confirmed by a court before it takes effect. Moreover, it is suggested that legislation, which recognises aspects of Muslim Personal Law, must also provide for an effective system of dispute resolution.
- In order to deal with constitutional concerns, it is suggested that any proposed legislation stipulating the grounds on which the conclusion of a polygamous marriage would be permissible, has to be narrowly circumscribed in the recognition of the limitations set out by the Qur'an itself.

1.6 Clarity on the choice of explanatory variables included in the report

- 1.6.1 The heterogeneity of the South African society makes it necessary to distinguish between global (national) affects and effects that apply specifically to certain population subgroups. For this reason, the divorce data are disaggregated into different relevant variables such as province, duration of marriage, marital status at time of marriage, occupation of spouse at time of divorce, population group, number of minor children, etc.
- 1.6.2 Of all the above variables, the relevance of population group is persistently questioned. The Department of Home Affairs does not collect information on this variable in the marriage statistics or in its other statistics (as at 1997). The divorce form, however, still collects information on this variable for the purposes of informing policy. As reporting on Africans is relatively poor, it is necessary to keep the population variable in order to monitor the progress made in improving coverage.
- 1.6.3 There is, however, a section of the population that chooses not to be placed in any population group by not filling in the question on population group. Previously, imputation was applied to cases where population groups were omitted. This entailed using the names reported and other available characteristics to decipher the likely population group. This practice has been discontinued since the 1995 marriages and divorces report. The report carries in its summary marriages between people of different population groups and marriages where the population group is not specified, respectively categorised as mixed and unspecified.

2. NOTES AND CONCEPTS

2.1.1 Crude marriage rate (CMR)

$$CMR = \frac{M}{P} * 100\ 000$$

Where:

CMR = Crude marriage rate

M = Number of registered marriages in a given years

P = Mid-year population estimate

2.1.2 Crude divorce rate (CDR)

$$CDR = \frac{D}{P} * 100\ 000$$

Where:

CDR = Divorce rate for married couples in a given year

D = Number of divorces in a given year

P = Mid-year population estimate

2.1.3 Modified Crude Divorce Rate (MDR)

The modified divorce rate (MDR) is calculated as:

$$d_{mar} = \frac{D}{P_f} * 100\ 000$$

Where:

d_{mar} = Divorce rate for married couples in a given year

D = Number of divorces in a given year

P_f = Number of married persons who are female

The modified crude divorce rate is used to denote the divorce rate based on the number of married couples. In intercensal years it is difficult to obtain a good estimate of the denominator. The denominator is usually obtained by either averaging the number of males and females, or by using one or the other. For the calculation of the modified crude divorce rate in this report, the number of married persons who are female was used as the denominator.

2.2. Municipalities

- 2.2.1 In this report, for Table C and Table 2.1, data are classified by municipality and according to the nine provinces of SA.
- 2.2.2 The coding of municipalities for Table C and Table 2.1 is done according to the plaintiff's address.
- 2.2.3 During the data coding process municipalities are coded in terms of the requirements of the Municipal Demarcation Board.
- 2.2.4 Dating back to 1994, the coding of magisterial districts was done using the Standard Code list of Areas of 28 November 1995 (Twelfth Edition), which was published by Stats SA.
- 2.2.5 The data for 1994, in some cases, are not comparable to the data of previous years. This is because of the changes in the boundaries of the magisterial districts in 1994.
- 2.2.6 In Tables 2.2, 2.4 and 2.7, the category 'Unspecified' indicates that incomplete information on province and/or municipality was submitted to the Department of Home Affairs.
- 2.2.7 In Table 3.2, the category 'Rest of ... Province' refers to municipalities that recorded less than four divorces per population group.

2.3 Way of solemnisation of marriage

- 2.3.1 In this report, the descriptions of the way of solemnisation need to be clarified. 'Civil' marriages refer to all marriages solemnised in courts either by a magistrate or designated marriage officer. However, as from 1 June 1996 no magistrate or designated persons from the Department of Justice solemnised marriages. The Department of Home Affairs now conducts the solemnisation of marriages.
- 2.3.2 The category 'Religious', in this report, refers to marriages that were solemnised under Christian or Jewish and Hebrew rites. It excludes customary, traditional marriages, and certain religious rites, especially that of Islamic marriages. Once these unrecognised marriages are recognised by law and recorded, then the use of the category 'religious' would be representative of the way marriages are solemnised in South Africa.
- 2.3.3 In cases where the religious denomination is not known or when the church description is vague, these are coded as 'unspecified'. In some of these cases only the name of the town or place where the marriages was registered is indicated.
- 2.3.4 In Tables 1.1.1 to 1.1.9, the categories 'Other Christian Churches and 'Other municipalities' are, respectively, used to code other Christian denominations and other municipalities, where the numbers are not significantly large.

2.4 Age

For marriages and divorces, the ages of the parties and duration of marriage are shown as completed years.

2.5 Occupation

- 2.5.1 In this report the classification of occupations is based on the Standard Classification of Occupations, Report No. 09-90-01, First Edition, 1986, which was published by Stats SA.
- 2.5.2 The descriptions of the occupation codes for Table 3.14 can be found in detail in Tables 2.12 and 2.13.

2.6 Minor children

In Tables 1.1 and 2.15.1 to 2.15.6, 'Minor children' refers to unmarried children under the age of 18 years.

2. DEFINITIONS

Crude rate: A 'crude rate' has a specific and general meaning. In its specific meaning, it refers to the general rate for the total population of an area. More generally, ever, it may be used to refer to the general rate for any population group in an area such as the male population, the population of a province or the urban population of a country.

Crude marriage rate as calculated in Figure 1, is expressed as the number of marriages per 100 000 of the population.

Crude divorce rate is expressed as the number of divorces per 100 000 of the population.

Modified crude divorce rate, as calculated in Table 1.1, denotes the divorce rate based on the number of divorces per 1 000 married couples.
